Thank You for Your Sacrifice

Contesting elections is hard work; Candidates put themselves and their families under scrutiny and sometimes at risk. Election agents and normally a small band of volunteers spend countless hours pounding the streets leafleting and canvassing.

So we would like to thank all those nationalists involved in the May elections. Disappointing results this time but be assured that Our Day Will Come!

Who Runs Britain?

Whilst researching the recent legal cases against British nationalists I was attracted to the following words on the website of the Jewish charity, the Campaign Against Anti-Semitism (CAA)..."Mr Bedford – Turner was only prosecuted because we forced the CPS to defend British Jews, against its will". I must say I found this statement quite shocking. The British state, via the Crown Prosecution Service (CPS) had spent two years of deliberation and decided that no offences had been committed. This decision prompted the CAA to launch a judicial review. But instead of fighting their corner in court and demonstrating who runs this great country of ours, the State surrendered and changed its decision. The CAA was again involved in the case against Alison Chabloz, this time launching a potentially expensive "private prosecution". Perhaps fearing another judicial review, the state-run CPS took over the prosecution at taxpayers expense, again despite its previous ruling that she had no case to answer.

There are fewer than 300,000 British Jews living in Britain today, less than 1% of the population and the CAA membership is just a tiny proportion of that. Nationalist Jez Turner was condemned for suggesting that Britain is under Jewish control, but the CAA seems determined to prove him right!

It is our government's responsibility to run Britain, and its agency, the CPS to decide who gets prosecuted and who does not.

Britain's First Black Home Secretary opens the door to More Black Migrants

Sajid Javid, the son of immigrants from Pakistan and Britain's first ever Black Home Secretary, is to scrap immigration rules and open the door for tens of thousands of Black and Asian migrants to come and work, study and live in Britain.

Within weeks of taking over the role of controlling immigration and protecting our borders, he has decided to scrap visa rules that limit the number of skilled non-EU workers coming to Britain.

Creating new "Open Door" Policies

Initially the move was to allow the NHS to recruit more doctors and nurses from the Indian sub-continent and Western Africa, but now is likely to give IT workers, engineers and even teachers the right to work in Britain. The visa cap introduced by Prime Minister Theresa May when she was Home Secretary, limited the number of work visas granted to non-EU skilled workers to 20,000 a year has now been abandoned. Also, has the requirement for foreign workers taking jobs in Britain to be paid a minimum £30,000 a year to stop employers taking cheap foreign workers instead of native Brits.

The NHS currently has 96,000 vacancies and has a high reliance on foreign-trained staff. Demand on the NHS has increased with 750,000 new migrants registering at GP surgeries in 2015/2016. A 2016 report found that 28% of Doctors, and 13% of nurses working in the NHS were foreign born.

Coming to a hospital near you?

The Health Secretary, Jeremy Hunt has promised to open five new medical schools this year as part of a plan to make Britain "self-sufficient" in doctors by 2025, but financial demands will mean a large percentage of places available will be offered to fee-paying foreign students!

The Tory manifesto pledge to reduce migration to Britain to "tens of thousands" instead of the current hundreds of thousands will be further undermined by new rules on foreign students coming to Britain.

In future foreign students coming to British universities will no longer have to prove ...

They have the right qualifications.

They have sufficient funds to support themselves.

They can speak fluent English.

These moves create a golden opportunity for bogus students to come here and then vanish into the "black-economy". Foreign students are also being encouraged to apply for course in "non-essential" subjects such as the arts and fashion design.

As these moves will inevitably increase the number of foreign students in Britain by tens of thousands, it is proposed to "fiddle" the immigration figures by taking foreign students out of immigration totals completely.

The new Home Secretary has stated that the Home Office will abandon the "Hostile Environment" policy towards illegal migrants established by his predecessor, and instead adopt policies more sympathetic to these criminals. No longer will NHS records be used to help track them down and, unbelievably, illegal immigrants will be allowed to open bank accounts just like law abiding citizens!

These new policies will increase mass migration into Britain.

Policies that must be highlighted and opposed by British nationalists.

Let's give Mr Javid the message loud and clear ...

WE WANT OUR COUNTRY BACK!

Jez Turner Jailed

London Forum organiser Jez Turner, has been found guilty of one count of "incitement to racial hatred" and jailed for 12 months.

The case revolved around a speech Mr Turner made in 2015 at a demonstration in Whitehall, called to protest against the "Shomrim", a predominantly Jewish vigilante-type group that wears police-style uniforms and conducts patrols in North London. He also criticised the power that some Jewish groups seemed to have in Britain. The march was observed by members of various Jewish groups, one of whom made a complaint to the police.

Following an investigation by the police and the Crown Prosecution Service (CPS) it was decided that there was not enough evidence for a successful prosecution, and the case was dropped. This decision was challenged by a Jewish group, the Campaign Against Anti-Semitism (CAA) who took legal action forcing the CPS to reverse its decision.

Following a three day trial at Southwark Crown Court, Jez was found guilty of one count of "incitement to racial hatred".

The jubilant CAA issued the following statement ..

"Mr Bedford-Turner was only prosecuted because we forced the CPS to defend British Jews, against its will".

A statement which will surely fuel resentment from those both on the right and left of British politics, and all who value free speech.

Jez Turner: A Martyr to Free Speech

It is probable that Jez will serve six months of his sentence in prison and six months on license.

In the meantime we would urge ALL patriots to write to Jez thanking him for his sacrifice.

New British Nationalist Party to be Launched

Veteran Nationalist, Eddy Morrison, is to launch a new nationalist party on the 1st of January 2019.

The new party, the Nationalist Party of Great Britain (N.P.G.B.) will be launched under the slogan, "A New Way Forward for British Nationalism".

In a statement given to League Sentinel, Mr Morrison submits the new party "will be a real alternate way forward for the whole British Nationalist movement".

The new party will not initially register as a political party with the Electoral Commission, preferring to adopt a ground level process of obtaining premises, vehicles, printing presses etc, rather than spend money on futile election campaigns. Eye-catching stunts and demonstrations are planned to generate propaganda and a 24 page printed bi-monthly magazine, "White Voice" is also planned for July.

We have no contact details at present.

Disappointing Results for Nationalists in Local Elections

Disappointing is probably the kindest word we could use to describe the election results achieved by nationalists and populists in the May council elections. UKIP lost over 100 seats and gained just three. In areas that were viewed as UKIP strongholds such as Basildon, Essex, the party lost all ten of its seats.

A small success was achieved in Derby where UKIP won two new seats. In Alvaston ward the UKIP candidate polled 59%, and in Boulton ward Paul Bettany polled 40%, winning the seat and ousting the local Labour party leader in the process.

One seat was also gained in Burnley with UKIP polling 40%.

In Thurrock, Essex, a former UKIP councillor fought his seat as a "Thurrock Independent" and won. Perhaps demonstrating that a party affiliation could be a handicap.

The BNP could only field 16 candidates, 15 of whom fought in London seats. The highest position achieved was John Clarke in Croydon, who finished 5th out of 8 candidates, polling 7% of the vote.

In Goresbrook ward Dagenham, where the BNP once held all three seats, Bede Smith polled almost 11% but still finished bottom of the poll.

The National Front fielded 5 candidates, all of whom finished bottom of the poll. No candidate polled more than 100 votes with Chris Jackson polling 98 in Todmorton (2.7%).

The English Democrats candidate for the Sheffield City Mayoralty election polled an astonishing 14,547 votes but still finished 6th out of 7 candidates!

Of the three council candidates fielded, Kevin Riddiough in Barnsley polled a respectable 11.1%.

The newly formed For Britain Movement run by former UKIP leadership candidate Anne Marie Waters concentrated its efforts in Leeds and Sandwell. In Leeds the party was last in four of the six wards it fought. In Sandwell their three candidates polled an average of 8%, although they did gain more votes than the UKIP candidate in one ward.

"Day for Freedom": Thousands March in London

Over five thousand people, nationalists, populists and football supporters marched from Speakers

Corner in Hyde Park to Whitehall to protest at the harassment campaign orchestrated by social media giants against patriotic Britons.

As well as members from British patriotic parties, a large contingent of football supporters from the Democratic Football Lads Alliance was in attendance.

Speakers included the London editor of the International news outlet, Breitbart, the newly elected leader of UKIP, Gerard Batten, co-founder of the online magazine Vice, Gavin McInnes, former UKIP leadership candidate Anne Marie Walters, who now leads the For Britain party and former English Defence League leader, Tommy Robinson.

Alt-Right Canadian journalist, Lauren Southern was due to speak but was banned by the Home Secretary from entering Britain, "in the public interest". However, a massive screen was erected in Whitehall so Lauren's speech could be relayed to the crowd.

Lauren Southern: Banned from Britain

The protest was triggered by Tommy Robinson after he was permanently banned by the social media platform Twitter. Mr Robinson now intends to take the media giant to court.

Six London-based members of the Friends of the League attended and reported that the event seemed to be part carnival and part Crusade.

The extreme-left "Anti-Fascist Students Network" had called for a mass mobilisation to stop the march, but was kept well away from the marchers for their own safety by the police. Most of the 200 or so that had bothered to turn up soon hid their banners and crept away.

“BIZARRE”

The Tommy Robinson Case

Bizarre is perhaps the best way to describe many of the aspects surrounding the recent arrest and imprisonment of Tommy Robinson. The staunch anti-Islamist has certainly been a thorn in the side of the establishment and his activities have no doubt been closely monitored by the State in the hope they could find a way of silencing him.

Tommy has charisma and strong leadership qualities, and his innovative tactics of opposing the Islamisation of Britain, and the growth of Mosques, Halal slaughter, forced marriage and Sharia law has embarrassed Britain's multi-faith establishment. He has been to the forefront of the battle to expose and shame the Muslim paedophile gangs that defile young white girls in our major cities.

“Flash demos” and marches, invasions of Mosques to confront Muslims for ignoring “grooming gangs” in their communities. Tommy has led from the front.

But Tommy is not a traditional British nationalist. As a guest of a Jewish journalist he visited Israel and posed for photographs holding the Israeli flag. This drew criticism from many traditional nationalists.

But thousands still attended a recent march in London in support of free speech after social media banned Tommy from one of its sites. He was building a large personal following, but the State was watching!

In May last year, while working for a Canadian media group, Tommy was arrested outside Canterbury Crown Court for trying to interview defendants in an ongoing trial. This was judged to be “contempt of court” and Tommy was sentenced to three-months in prison, suspended for 18 months.

Bizarrely, these were almost the identical circumstances of his recent arrest outside Leeds Crown Court. The case being heard in Leeds was subject to reporting restrictions, yet Tommy turns up outside and begins to stream live to his Facebook account. Allegedly Tommy gave details of the case and some of the people involved, in a video which lasted over an hour. Within hours of it going online it had been viewed by 250,000 people. How was Tommy supposed to know of the reporting restrictions in place, or did he know, but decided to challenge the State? Bizarre!

The State's reaction was predictable. Tommy was arrested, taken into court, charged with “contempt of court” and sentenced to ten months in prison, plus the suspended sentence of three months from the Canterbury court case was activated, meaning Tommy has been sentenced to a total of thirteen months in jail.

Bizarrely all this happened, the arrest, the court case and sentencing within a period of just five hours!

Equally Bizarre was the fact that Tommy Robinson pleaded guilty!

Finally, and perhaps the most Bizarre of all, is having arrested, tried and imprisoned Tommy Robinson, the State, via the court imposed restrictions on reporting any mention of the Robinson case! Tommy was to be spirited away to jail without anybody knowing!

Fortunately, the news had already broken on social media and eventually the court had to lift restrictions

International response to the case has been astonishing. Donald Trump Jr tweeted his 2-8 million followers “Free Tommy Robinson”. Hananya Naftali, an advisor to the Israeli Prime Minister tweeted, “Free Tommy Robinson. Dutch MP, Geert Wilders held a “Free Tommy Robinson” demo outside the British Embassy in the Netherlands and Jewish supporters held a similar demo outside the British Embassy in Tel Aviv.

Geert Wilders Addresses London Demo

German MP, Petr Bystron even offered to arrange political asylum for Tommy in Germany!

In London, thousands took part in a “Free Tommy” demonstration addressed by UKIP leader, Gerard Batten and Dutch MP Geert Wilders who demanded Britain “Restore Free Speech”.

Further activities are planned.

SINISTER

The Alison Chabloz Case

Whilst we described some of the aspects surrounding the case against Tommy Robinson as Bizarre, there are definitely some aspects of the case against singer-songwriter Alison Chabloz best described as Sinister.

Alison Chabloz (pictured) is a professional musician who also composes and performs satirical songs. As we understand it, she performed several of her satirical compositions to an invitation only meeting of the London Forum, and by all reports her efforts were well received by the audience. Three of her songs were videoed and posted on the social media platform You Tube. Satire, by its very nature, is often offensive to those who are its target. Sacha Baron Cohen is one of the best performers of satirical material on television today. Using fictitious characters such as "Ali G" a cockney Black youth from a London council estate who normally challenges any criticisms from the authorities with the words, "Is it cos I'm black"? Another of his characters is "Borat" who is supposed to be a stereotype Eastern European with bad spoken English and manners. But in one sketch, "Borat" and his "Kazakhstan" band appear at an American Country and Western diner and ask to perform. Their song is called "throw the Jew down the well". One would think these lyrics would be offensive or even grossly offensive to the eagle-eyed Jewish groups that monitor our media, but no prosecutions, neither state nor private, have ever been launched! But in Alison's case, within hours of her postings on You Tube complaints were made to the police. Sinister!

One of Alison's songs, (((Survivors))) parodied public figures linked to the Holocaust. Eli Wiesel, Otto Frank and Irene Zisblatt were named in the song but, as far as we are aware, none of these "victims" complained to the police. However, complaints were made and the police spent over a year conducting their investigations. Finally the file was sent to the State's "Crown Prosecution Service" (CPS) who decided no crimes had been committed. Free speech must prevail!

It was at this point a small, but seemingly powerful and well connected Jewish Charity; the Campaign Against Anti-Semitism (CAA) launched a private prosecution against Alison under the Communications Act 2003.

Amazingly, after declaring there was no case to answer, the State, via the CPS, and without any explanation then took over the private prosecution, at taxpayer's expense. Sinister!

Things then took an even more sinister turn. In a case where it was being alleged that some Jews were being "grossly offended" by Alison, the first Judge appointed to the case stood down when it was discovered she was married to a senior member of the Conservative Friends of Israel! The next Judge, District Judge John Zani revealed that he had received an email from a Jewish old school friend which may have compromised him and offered to stand down. His offer was rejected by Alison's defence team and in hindsight may have been a mistake. Judge Zani was trying the case on his own, without a jury. Observers in court said he seemed completely biased against the defence, and in these circumstances the verdict was inevitable, guilty on three counts under the Public Communications Act.

Alison was sentenced to 20 weeks in prison, suspended for two years, plus 180 hours of Community Service.

So what has been actually achieved by the State prosecuting Alison? Nothing has really been resolved.

What is "grossly offensive" to one person could still be merely "offensive" to another and even "funny" to a third person.

Perhaps Searchlight editor, Gerry Gable gave the game away when he posted on the 28th of May an article partly headed "You Tube star is found guilty of denying the Holocaust".

This was followed up with a statement posted just three days later by CAA chairman Falter, "Importantly through this case, we have been able to secure judicial backing for the internationally accepted definition of anti-Semitism and an extremely detailed ruling that Holocaust denial, when intended to wound, is "grossly offensive" and therefore likely to be a criminal offence".

So is that what this case was really about, "Holocaust denial" being made illegal without the need for Parliament to debate and enact such legislation?

A back-door Holocaust denial law? Sinister!

Look Back at History

As Britain commemorates the centenary of the founding of the RAF, we look at the prominence of Fascists in aviation

Mosley's Blackshirt Airmen

Although Britain commemorated the founding of the RAF on April 1st 2018, Britons had been taking part in air warfare with the Royal Flying Corps since 1914. Sir Oswald Mosley, later to become the leader of the BUF, was one of the first 60 airmen to fly on active service with the Royal Flying Corps. He flew as an observer over France during the First World War (1914-1918) at a time when the average life span of aircrew was just six weeks!

Another famous WW1 flyer was Captain D.M.K Merendaz. He joined the Royal Flying Corps in 1916, and was in combat over the Western front after only 20 hours of pilot training time. In November 1917, with all other allied and German aircraft grounded by fog, he took his spotter plane over the battlefield at Cambrai where 300 British tanks were attacking German lines. Swooping down to just 150 feet, within range of enemy rifle fire, he spotted and reported that a vital bridge had been destroyed. Without this knowledge tanks would have ground to a halt and become sitting ducks for enemy action. He later joined Mosley in the BUF and despite his eminent war record was interned under Defence Regulation 18b in the Summer of 1940.

Another famous figure in aviation was Alliot Vernon Roe. A WW1 pilot, he went on to establish the Avro Company which in WW2 built the iconic, Lancaster bomber made famous for its part in the "Dambuster raids". A.V Roe was a firm supporter of Mosley and wrote articles for the BUF publication, Action.

In the period between the end of WW1 and the beginning of WW2 the growth of aviation was not limited to the RAF.

All over the country small civilian flying and gliding clubs were being established. In Gloucestershire, the officials of the local flying club were all Blackshirts.

In addition, there were several women pilots in the Blackshirt movement including Mrs Douglass Duff who was a qualified commercial pilot.

In the late 1930's war clouds were gathering. Mosley and the BUF campaigned vigorously against another war. But on September 3rd 1939, the warmongers were successful and Britain formerly declared war on Germany.

To Blackshirts, despite campaigning against war, their duty was clear. Their first loyalty was to King and Country and their duty was to fight!

Ironically, the first two official British casualties of the war, Kenneth Day aged 20 and George Brocking 22, were both Blackshirt comrades in the BUF!

Both men had volunteered for aircrew duties and were subsequently trained as air-gunners.

On the 4th of September, the second day of the war, six Wellington bombers left their base at RAF Honington, Suffolk, on route to bomb enemy battleships at the mouth of the Kiel Canal.

Two Wellingtons were lost in the operation that day, one by anti-aircraft fire and the other shot down by a German fighter.

The body of young Ken Day was picked up from the sea by a cargo ship ten days later. The Germans buried him with full military honours in Cuxhaven Cemetery.

The body of his comrade George Brocking was never found. His name is inscribed on the Royal Airforce Memorial at Runnymede.

Two young men, brother Blackshirts, who first fought to stop Britain being dragged into another war, and then died fighting in it.

They will not be forgotten!

A WW2 Wellington Bomber

Other Blackshirts, whose lives were sacrificed in a war they had campaigned against, included Dennis Lucan DFM who lied about his age to join the RAF at the age of 16. A Blackshirt cadet with the North East Leeds branch of the BUF he had already seen "action" with the Blackshirts at the bloody battle of Leeds Holbeck Moor Mosley meeting.

At the age of 21, he was already the holder of the Distinguished Flying Medal (DFM) and a veteran of 27 operations. On October 7th 1944, Dennis joined his crew in 617 Squadron, the Dambusters, and flew on a mission to destroy the vital German Kembs Dam. Overshooting the Dam on their first attempt they were forced to turn for a second run, and now the sole target for all of the German anti-aircraft fire. It was now a suicide mission. Dennis and his crew of Lancaster LM 482 successfully dropped their specially designed bomb and the dam was breached. But Dennis never returned!

One of Britain's most proficient flyers was Squadron-Leader Geoffrey Warnes DSO DFC. A fighter pilot with 263 Squadron he drowned after being forced to ditch into the English Channel following a raid on France. Pre-war, Geoffrey Warnes had been the Transport Officer for the East Riding BUF.

Squadron-Leader Lionel Aitken of 59 Squadron had been a member of the BUF's "I" Squad before the war. These specially trained stewards were used to eject violent demonstrators from meetings.

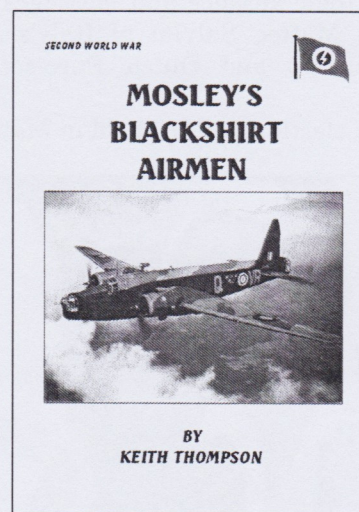

A dedicated Blackshirt, he was last seen on the 7th of July 1941, crashing into the sea off the French coast with one of his engines on fire.

Squadron-Leader Robert Franklin and Wing-Commander R "Tigge" Fitch, DFC, were both killed in a landing accident while flying with 212 Squadron in 1944. Both men had been comrades in Clapham Branch BUF.

These few records of RAF servicemen who were also Fascists are very far from being complete. But at a time when fellow Blackshirts were being jailed without charge or trial as potential traitors by corrupt politicians, these brave men proved their loyalty to Britain by deed not words.

We Will Remember Them!

Marine Le Pen Calls for “another Europe” at Nice Rally

With an eye on next years European Parliamentary elections, Front National leader Marine Le Pen called for a “fundamental change” to the European Union and the creation of “another Europe” at a May Day rally in Nice.

Joining Ms Le Pen at the rally were members of the EU parliamentary group, the “Movement for a Europe of Nations and Freedom (MENF). Also in attendance were Harald Vilimsky of the Austrian Freedom Party, who are now part of Austria’s governing coalition, Tomio Okamura from the Czech, Freedom and Direct Democracy party, and representatives from the Polish Congress of the New Right and Bulgaria’s patriotic Volya party.

Apologies for their absence and messages of support were sent by Matteo Salvini of Italy’s Lega Nord (Northern League) and Dutch Euro-sceptic Geert Wilders.

The European elections will be held in May 2019.

Hungary

Fidesz wins Hungarian Election

The anti-migrant, Euro sceptic Fidesz party, in alliance with the KDNP (Christian Democratic Peoples Party) won a two-thirds majority in the recent Hungarian elections with a promise to continue their anti-migrant stance.

The Fidesz government has already erected barbed wire fences along its borders with Serbia and Croatia to prevent illegal immigration, and is likely to maintain its position of refusing to take part in the EU’s refugee resettlement programme.

Fidesz won 133 seats in the 199 seat parliament, polling almost 3 million votes.

The official opposition will be led by the nationalist, Jobbik movement, who polled 20% of the vote, giving them 26 seats, an increase of three seats in parliament. Jobbik’s election strategy of toning down its anti-migrant policies to appear more “moderate” was seen to be a mistake, prompting the Jobbik leader, Gabor Vona to resign.

Germany

Threats to German Jews on the Increase

Threat levels to German Jews has increased to such a level that Jewish authorities are advising Jews not to wear skullcaps in public, unless they are in groups. The increase in attacks has happened mainly in large cities and for the first time, Muslim refugees are being blamed rather than neo-Nazis. The attacks seem to be linked to Israeli atrocities against Palestinians.

ITALY

New Coalition Government Formed

Following their success at the recent Italian elections, the Five Star Movement, and the Lega (formerly the Northern League), have finally formed a coalition government.

They have announced that the new government will, as a priority, begin the process of deporting the 500,000 economic migrants who have arrived on Italian shores as refugees. This is likely to bring them into dispute with the EU whose rules state that wherever the refugees land in Europe, it is that country's duty to accept them. Also, an early review will be made on the current policy of assisting migrant boats to make shore, and in future all rescue craft may be banned from landing migrants at Italian ports.

Lega Demands a Stop to Immigration

During the election campaign both parties promised a referendum on a proposal to leave the EU. This promise now seems to have been quietly dropped by the new government.

A decision to defy EU rules on spending and reject the EU's "austerity" measures may yet see Italy suspended from membership.

Denmark

Denmark Bans Burkas

The Danish parliament voted by a substantial majority to ban full-face coverings from being worn in public.

This will include Islamic veils such as the niqab and burka.

The ban comes into force on August 1st and carries a 1000 Kroner (£115) fine.

Laws banning the burka and other face veils are already in place in Austria, France and Belgium.

Denmark is the Latest European Country to Ban the Burka.

Spain

Spain is the New Migrant Gateway to Europe

With the long-awaited clampdown on people-smuggling from Libya, to Greece and Italy showing results, the traffickers are now establishing new smuggling routes into Spain. An EU funded deal where Libyan coastguards intercept migrant boats while still in Libyan waters and convey them to detention centers for repatriation to their own countries has seen a marked drop in the numbers using this route. But now Spain has become the new target for economic migrants looking for a better life in Europe.

According to official figures, the number of migrants arriving at Spanish ports has trebled in just one year!

In 2016, just over 6000 migrants arrived by boat, but in 2017 this figure trebled to 21,500.

Spanish nationalists are demanding that rescue boats, which encourage migrant smuggling, should be banned from all Spanish ports.

Another Muslim Grooming Gang Convicted

Men Raped Girls as young as 13

Eight Muslim men from Oxford have been jailed for sexually abusing white girls as young as 13 over a seven year period. . The jury at Oxford Crown Court was told that the gang had committed “hundreds of episodes of sexual abuse on young vulnerable girls”.

Muslim Paedophile Rapists

In the course of the trial the defence made an astonishing claim that the gang, whose ages ranged from 36 to 48 were “immature”. Also, most revealing was a defence statement that the attitude of the Muslim community in not allowing men to bring girlfriends home and not allowing sex before marriage “does have a tendency to encourage clandestine relationships”! Fortunately, the jury recognised that raping 13 and 14 year old girls was not exactly a clandestine relationship”

Their five victims, aged between 13 and 17 were plied with drink and drugs before being taken to “sex parties” where they were gang-raped by up to four men at a time.

This case joins a long list of similar cases involving the rape and sexual assault of thousands of young white girls by predominately Muslim men.

Rotherham, Rochdale, Newcastle, Telford, Aylesbury, Derby, Bristol, Keighley and Peterborough, to name just a few. Yet, there has not been one case where the perpetrators have had “racially aggravated” added to charges, which would increase the jail sentence, despite the vast majority of the victims being young white girls, and their attackers being Asian, Muslim men.

Assad Hussain (37) was jailed for life and was told he would serve at least 12 years. Moinul Islam (41) was jailed for 15 years but could be out on licence in just 8 years. Raheem Ahmad (40) Khalid Hussain (38) and Kameer Iqbal (39) were all jailed for 12 years but could be out in just 6 years. Haji Khan (38) was jailed for 10 years and Alladitta Yousaf was jailed for 7 years and 6 months None of the men were recommended to be deported after serving their sentence.

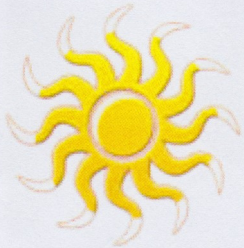

They will be free to prowl the streets of Oxford again!

We rarely, if ever, hear condemnation of this behaviour from within the British Muslim community, perhaps because paedophilia is largely accepted within their culture. Forced marriage, although illegal in Britain since 2014, is still widely practiced. Over 300 cases of forced marriage between under 18s to much older men, often a first cousin, were investigated in 2017, with some cases involving girls as young as 12 being married off. Many Muslim families try to disguise it as being part of their religion, tradition or culture, but in reality, it is rape!

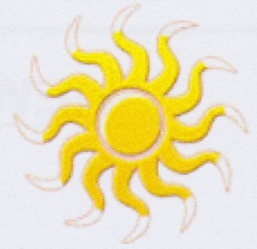

As with the activities of grooming gangs in Rotherham, where at least 1,400 young white girls were sexually assaulted and raped by gangs of Muslim men, many police forces and social service departments are still reluctant to get involved for fear of being labelled racist.

When these perverts are successfully prosecuted sentences must be severe, including long jail sentences and deportation.

The British Muslim community, which is growing larger every year, must take immediate steps to cleanse their community, or be judged as accomplices.

Summer Solstice

A sacred day in the Pagan calendar of our North European ancestors

The Summer Solstice, or midsummer's day, is the longest day of the year, when the time between sunrise and sunset is at its maximum. After the Summer Solstice daylight time gradually reduces as winter creeps in. To our North European ancestor, this was a time of celebration, for long daylight hours meant longer time in the fields and forests, hunting and growing crops for winter. Depending on the shift in the calendar, the Summer Solstice occurs between June 20th and June 22nd. This year it is June 21st.

While it was still dark, our ancestors made their way to sacred sites, and gathered inside a ring of stones, ritually placed on directions from the wise men of the tribe. Once set, the stones would remain often for centuries. Many of these stone circles remain today, the best preserved being Stonehenge in Wiltshire.

As the first rays of the sun appeared through the sacred circle, a great cheer would rise from the crowd, and the wise ones or priests, would light a sacred bonfire.

The Sun appears above the sacred circle

The day would be spent feasting and dancing, with young men testing their courage in jumping through the flames from the bonfire and walking across hot ashes. The bonfire was a vital part of the celebration as it was believed to keep evil spirits away. For this was a really spiritual event, when "magic" herbs such as Calendula and St John's Wort, both with powerful healing powers, could be safely gathered by the wise women of the tribe, for the making of potions to heal the sick. Prayers were said, asking the Gods for a successful harvest and a mild winter. Good health for the family and good luck and prosperity for the tribe were also asked.

As with many Pagan festivals, the Christian church adopted the Summer Solstice as "St John's Day", the alleged birthday of Saint John the Baptist. But this was not widely accepted, and priests often complained that on midsummer's day "those who claim to be Christians prefer to spend the day celebrating at the bonfire rather than going to church".

Today, the solstice is still widely celebrated in Northern Europe. In Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, midsummer's day is a public holiday. In Sweden and Finland a public holiday is on a fixed date, June 24th.

People flock to the countryside, light bonfires, hold feasts and perform traditional dances until sunset.

Maidens perform traditional dances

For Britons it is more awkward to celebrate the solstice. As it is not a public holiday, most people have to spend their day at work. But it is still possible to rise early to watch the arrival of the midsummer sun. In the evening, a candle can substitute for the sacred bonfire and a walk outside to watch the setting sun is not beyond most folk. Remember to offer prayers for your family and kith and kin, and give thanks to the Gods for their gifts. In this multi-cultural society it is vital that you do not abandon your individual spiritual heritage.

Blessed Be!
